

Green Printciples

Supported by GreenPrint magazine, Green Printciples is an initiative that brings together like minded printers from across the UK who all work to high environment standards and are looking to extend what they do in this field. It brings them together for events and networking, as well as providing dedicated information specifically targeted to them to do with the environment and going/being green.

Entry to the group is free for printers, but they have to prove that they adhere to certain environmental principles.

As part of this, 2016 will see the launch of the Green Principles awards, which are focused on ethical and socially responsible print and media. The awards celebrate the best projects, products, people and principles within print and paper.
